The delegates will discuss critical issues for green parks investment and management, including policy frameworks, experiences from other countries, partnerships, and opportunities. Also featured will be a short excursion to one of the green parks, which is being developed by the Dodoma City Council.

The GGP is a core component of UONGOZI Institute’s activities to support sustainable development. It aims to increase awareness and understanding of issues related to green growth and its potential for Tanzania’s development. It is a proactive tool for creating cross-sectoral linkages, promoting economic and social well-being, and safeguarding the ecosystems and environment that sustain us all. Since inception (2010), eight events have been facilitated.
